LAST SURVIVOR OF NOTED IMMIGRANT COMPANY HERE

'Uncle' Moses Stubblefield Tells Of Experiences In Crossing Plains, 1860

A large majority of Glendale residents are totally unaware of the fact that this city claims as one of its residents the oft-mentioned one and only "original Arkansas traveler." This familiar characterization of the American people during the latter part of the nineteenth century and often referred to in western publications as one of the typical early Pacific coast immigrants is none other than "Uncle" Moses Stubblefield, whose present home is at 123 West Acacia avenue.

In a recent interview with Mr. Stubblefield, the aged pioneer clearly described the principal episodes and experiences that have thickly dotted his interesting and adventurous career. His only regret is, although his life has been marred with many adverse and trying circumstances, that it is a thing of the past and not of the future.

In the early spring of the year 1860, as "Uncle" now relates it, he left his home in a little town in Arkansas in a caravan composed of 102 men, women and children, 200 head of cattle and seventy-five horses. As was the custom in those days, all of the men of the group, of which there were forty-one, were organized into a military company, the purpose of which was to serve on picket duty for the protection of the party against Indians. At that time Stubblefield was 14 years of age and was the youngest member of the squad, which was known as Captain King's company.

To describe all of the interesting events which have taken place in Mr. Stubblefield's life since that time would be practically an impossible task, so just touch on a few of the "high spots" is made.

Trip Lasts for 157 Days

The extremely perilous and eventful trip, which lasted 157 days, took the small band of determined overland travelers through what is now known as Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, Colorado, Montana, Idaho and Oregon. Their hardships caused by crossing the Rocky mountains, fights with Indians, exposure and scarcity of food were told in such a manner as to remind one of the experiences of the earlier American frontiersmen crossing the Alleghanies.

One instance of especial interest as told by the rugged old prospector, was that of an encounter which took place on the banks of the Snake river in Idaho with the Bannock Indians, who were one of the most dangerous and feared tribes of the west at that time.

Following the combat, in which the whites were victorious, the party continued on their march westward after burying their one victim of the Indians. They had gone only a few miles, however, when it was seen that the redskins had returned to the scene of battle and unearthed the

Looking up they saw the tip of the propeller fly off and pierce the gasoline tank. Immediately the tank was in flames and falling into the water.

As the Glendale boys' boat was nearest the scene they helped to put out the fire and pick up the two passengers, who had jumped into the water. The damage amounted to several hundred dollars.

GLENDALE GIRL IS DEAD AS RESULT OF AUTO CRASH

Machine In Which Child And Mother Are Riding Is Totally Destroyed

Benita Tassano, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Tassano of San Fernando Road and Grand View avenue, was run down and fatally injured by a machine driven by P. C. Macquiddy, on the highway between this city and Burbank. The injured girl was rushed to the Burbank hospital and Dr. H. R. Boyer of Glendale called in. An examination disclosed the fact that she was suffering from a compound fracture of the skull and she passed away within a short time.

The accident occurred on the corner of San Fernando Road and Bryant avenue, and, according to Mrs. Ojarrio Tassano, mother of the dead girl, Macquiddy, while driving at a high rate of speed, attempted to pass a truck loaded with hay on the wrong side.

Machine Destroyed

The machine in which the victim was riding was entirely destroyed and Mrs. Tassano, who was driving, suffered many severe contusions and abrasions.

The body was removed to an undertaking company in Los Angeles, where it is awaiting the coroner's inquest, which is to be held Thursday morning. Pending the outcome of the inquest, no charge has been placed against Macquiddy.

Outing Party Changes Plans, Escapes Flames

A party of Glendale folks who motored to Chatsworth lake for the Fourth are shaking hands with themselves today. It was originally planned to spend the day at Bouquet canyon, but at the last minute plans were changed and the outing held at Chatsworth lake instead.

During the day a large fire started in the timber surrounding Bouquet, and everyone who was picnicking in the vicinity was impressed into service to battle the flames by the forest rangers, and it was a hard and strenuous day for many who had contemplated a pleasant outing.

Among those who spent an enjoyable day at the lake were: Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Baird, Dr. and Mrs. T. C. Young, Dr. and Mrs. Frank Staley, Dr. and Mrs. Linc Rankin, Dr. and Mrs. John Eames, Dr. and Mrs. Leslie Eames, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Worley, Mr. and Mrs. Max Green, Mr. and Mrs. George Lyons, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Harry McBain, Mr. and Mrs. Harry McCarter and Mr. and Mrs. Blake Franklin.

FREEDOM TOPIC OF ELDER E. L. NEFF AT EXERCISES

Civil And Religious Liberty Have Made Nation Great, So Speaker Declares

While many Glendale folks celebrated the Fourth at the beaches or motored to the nearby resorts, the day was fittingly celebrated with patriotic ceremonies on the spacious grounds of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital. Besides all of the inmates of the hospital who were well enough to be moved or wheeled from their rooms, the exercises were enjoyed by a number of townspeople who had remained in the city for the day.

At the conclusion of the musical and oraf services a flag drill was given by the nurses of the institution. The speech of the day, which dwelt upon religious and political freedom, was delivered by Elder E. L. Neff, of the Seventh-day Adventist church.

The program was as follows:

America, sung by audience; prayer, Elder J. A. Corliss; recitation, Mrs. Mary Hanson; recitation, Mrs. Henrietta Rich; soprano solo, (a) L'Ardito, (b) If I But Knew, Miss Frances Leitch, accompanist, Mrs. A. Belle Johnson; recitation, Mrs. Henrietta Rich; patriotic speech, Elder E. L. Neff; contralto solo (a) Gavotte, (b) The Shoogy Shoo, Mrs. Rita King Nelson, accompanist, Mrs. A. Belle Johnson; flag drill by the nurses.

Following is Elder Neff's address in full:

"Fellow Citizens—We have met today on the anniversary of the adoption of that immortal document—the Declaration of Independence, which was adopted by the continental congress at the state house in Philadelphia, July 4, 1776. This was the first grand step in American freedom and progress in their march across this continent, and whose influence today binds us together a great nation.

DIFFERENCES COME OVER FINAL PEACE WITH GERMANY

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Differences as to how a final peace with Germany shall be brought about were coming to the top today following final enactment of the peace resolution. Secretary Hughes is said to favor deleting all but the purely economic clauses of the treaty of Versailles and making this deleted treaty the basis of peace. Hughes is credited with persuading President Harding to make a declaration for this course in his message to congress.

DENIES ANGLO-JAPANESE ALLIANCE AGAINST AMERICA

TOKIO, July 5.—Denial that the Anglo-Japanese alliance can be construed as being aimed against America was made in a long statement issued today by the Japanese foreign office. "By no stretch of the imagination can it be honestly said that the alliance was ever desired or remotely intended as an instrument of hostility or even of defense against the United States," the statement said. "It is the firmly fixed determination of Japan to permit nothing to hamper her traditional relations of good understanding with the United States."

UNITED STATES PASSES THROUGH ITS SANEST FOURTH

NEW YORK, July 5.—America has passed her safest, sanest Fourth of July, it was indicated in reports gathered today by the United Press from cities in all parts of the country. Deaths were from drowning, for the most part. Explosion of fire crackers caused few casualties. Chicago and Boston led the casualty list with twelve deaths each. In Chicago five were drowned and the rest killed in auto accidents. In Milwaukee eleven were killed, six being drowned. In New York six were killed. Three were killed in Detroit, three in Brownsville, Pa., and three in Houston. Scores of other cities reported small casualty lists, caused mostly by drowning or automobile accidents. San Francisco reported three dead and three injured.

MEXICAN OIL SHARES ARE ATTACKED ON N. Y. EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, July 5.—Mexican oil shares were subjected to an attack at the opening of the stock market today and were forced down several points. The drive was in response to reports of a general shutdown in the Tampico fields as a result of the new Mexican import tax. Mexican Petroleum, after opening ⅞ off at 98½, broke 5 points to 93¼, a new low for the year. Pan American B made a new record low of 37, off 1½, shortly after the opening. The rest of the list was somewhat easier. By the end of the first hour the market had steadied. The big decline in Mexican Petroleum was partially due to the catching of stop loss orders just under the former low of 96. A dullness crept into the market around noon.

Miss Terry, who was formerly head of the dramatic department of the Glendale high school, was found dead in her bed Saturday morning. Apparently in good health and spirits upon retiring Friday night, her parents were shocked the following morning to find that she had succumbed to heart failure.

At the time of her death Miss Terry was on a year's leave of absence from her school work.

REPUBLIC'S MISSION IS EXPLAINED BY REV. MOTTERN

Local Man Speaker Before Grand Army At Services At Methodist Church

The Grand Army of the Republic and other friends met at the First Methodist church Sunday afternoon for a patriotic rally. Rev. C. M. Crist presided. The scripture lesson was read and prayer offered by Rev. C. A. Cole. Miss Elizabeth Mottern sang a solo in excellent form.

The speaker, Rev. R. W. Mottern was then introduced by Rev. C. M. Crist as "one of our most esteemed citizens."

Rev. Mottern announced as his topic, "The Mission of Our Republic." The address was well delivered and proved highly interesting and inspiring. The text was Psalms 147-20, "He hath not dealt so with any nation." The speaker said:

"This text is especially applicable to our American nation.

"The most glorious Fourth has come with all its noise and hurrah.

"We feel, those of us who have made the most noise, that we have done more than others to celebrate the day of our independence. A little extra noise, a few things extra beyond what we commonly do, are admissable by common consent on the Fourth.

Day for Freedom

"And there is no day of the entire year when Young America feels like unbanding the straps and ropes of strict decorum and just giving himself to all sorts of demonstration, only so it makes a noise, the louder the better.

"We celebrate the 145th year of our independence from national oppression and the yoke of national bondage, and no other nation has such a national holiday as we.

"Those were strenuous days when it tried men's souls; when the small handful of people, who styled themselves 'Americans,' living along the Atlantic Seaboard, were rent and torn by oppression and tyranny, from the noblest to the humblest families. The 3,000,000 million souls who occupied that narrow strip of land had a variety of opinion, just what they ought to do under their circumstances. So it was no strange thing that the Tory, the Loyalist, the lover of old English royalty was very numerous and counselled submission quietly and peacefully to the oppression of the idiotic English king. It was no wonder that so many kinds of people made the stroke for independence all the more difficult, because there was division at home. And you know the adage, 'a kingdom divided against itself cannot stand.' Here there was a grand exception, because the hand of Almighty God was in it to bring 'forth a new nation, conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men were created equal.'

It Was Advanced Idea

"The idea of a republic, a democracy where the people made the laws, to govern themselves, and to be executed by themselves, was a new thought, an advanced idea, in the face of all the history of the past. A democracy was more of an experiment at that early day than a successfully tried matter.

"How different from Louis XVI, who declared in that haughty manner, 'I am the state.' Or that other equally erroneous thought of the 'divine right of kings?'

"But after these 145 years of the most astounding history of any modern government, we have gone far past the day of experiment. Truly when God sent the early Pilgrim, the Huguenot and Covenanter and Early Swedes to these shores seeking that which was denied them at home—liberty to worship God, freedom in the managing of their own affairs, and a voice in the making of the very laws they were supposed to keep—God just took the vine of this present day government out of the Egypt of cruel bondage and unbearable oppression and transplanted it on this new soil to bring forth abundantly under entirely new conditions, and behold what God and men have wrought! To deny the hand of Almighty God in the transplanting of that vine to these shores, is flying in the very face of providence, and flatly contradicts every clear and unmistakable evidence.

From Then Till Now

"From the very beginning until this present hour, that God who brought the children of Israel out of Egypt and planted them in the Promised Land, has not only planted this republic, but He has protected it as a vine, and in this twentieth century, in its unparalleled growth and providential preservation 'we live under its wide-spreading and sheltering boughs which are like the very Cedars of Lebanon, and (how

Fire Department Has Easy Time On Fourth

The members of the Glendale fire department enjoyed a comparatively easy Fourth of July yesterday, the extent of their work being the putting out of two brush fires. One of the conflagrations became quite a threatening blaze, however, it being the one on the hills just southeast of the city limits. Several acres of brush were destroyed, it taking the twenty-five firefighters over two hours to stand off the flames.

The region of the fire was in Eagle Rock and Los Angeles territory, but as they failed to answer the call the local department went to the rescue.

TELLS OF PROBLEM OF SUFFERING IN TALK ON SUNDAY

Series Of Texts Are Used By Rev. W. E. Edmonds To Bring Home Facts

At the Presbyterian church Sunday morning the pastor, Rev. W. E. Edmonds preached on "The Problem of Suffering," using a series of texts: "As by one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin; and and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned." (Rom. 5:12); "Whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth, and scourgeth every son whom he receiveth," (Heb. 12:6); "Moses, choosing rather to suffer affliction with the people of God than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season," (Heb. 11:25); "For unto you it is given in the behalf of Christ, not only to believe on him, but also to suffer for his sake, (Phil. 1:29); "And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain; for the former things are passed away." (Rev. 21: 4). A resume of the sermon follows:

"Next to sin itself suffering is the most inexplicable enigma. Why all this suffering, this pain, these disappointments? Why is it all? People go into atheistic beliefs on account of it, saying there is no God, and that men are tossed to and fro by blind chance. And some take the position of the fatalist, 'Just go along and make the best of it,' 'grin and bear it.'

"Now the Scriptures make it clear that man is born to trouble. Jesus Christ was a man of sorrows. He, the captain of our salvation, became perfect through suffering. Paul said, 'That I might know Him, and the fellowship of His suffering.' Oh, for the fellowship of his suffering! There is a lot of fellowship that this world is missing.

Penalty of Sin

"But there is another aspect of suffering we must not miss—the judicial side, the penalty of sin. Think of the thousands of children who are damned before they are born. There is a mighty obligation to give the child its true birthright. It is a serious thing to be a father, a mother. Some think 'that life is all the hell there is.' But we are told 'After this life the judgment.' Judgment covers the realms, time and eternity.

"And again, there is the disciplinary side of suffering the work of the Father who corrects, meant to remedy our faults, a sign not of God's displeasure, but his love. If we receive this, then are we children. And there is the preparatory side, and the educative. Is there a child in your family you have never corrected? That child has not begun to live. Do you remember that the refiner never leaves the crucible? He sits right by it watching the moment. Jesus stands right by; when the right moment comes, He turns off the heat.

"I am sorry for one who is going along without any trying, suffering, refining. In your bed of pain you have looked up into Jesus' face and learned. Certain results are so precious that without suffering they are unattainable, as only fire can remove dross from silver and gold. There is a story in Italy of the vineyardists, where fire came and burned bare their vineyards, tents and all. There appeared in the burned bare ground precious silver that had been hidden before and which made them all rich. It is the fire that brings out the precious things, and burns up that which God wants to get rid of.

Developed by Suffering

"Three graces—patience, humility, unselfishness—always and only are they developed through suffering. There is a story of a Christian blacksmith, who had a great deal of affliction. Challenged by an unbeliever, 'Tell me how it is you are permitted to suffer'? he answered: 'I take a piece of iron, heat it white hot, plunge it in the waters to see if it will take a temper; if I think it will, in it goes again and again, and it makes a useful article; but if I think it will not take a temper, it goes to the scrap heap at a cent a pound.' How can people be willing to go on the scrap-heap? May God temper us and make us fit and able for use. In the paper mill filthy rags are purged, ground to pulp, bleached, and made into fine, lovely paper. We are torn and rolled in the mill of tribulation. In the potter's shop skilled hands pull and pound the clay to get the air utterly out; after it has been shaped, then the fire, else it will be no good whatever. 'Oh, how long must I stay in this fire'? 'Until it is enough.' Oh, take courage; you are in the hands of a father, not an enemy.

"Sum it all up: God is love. Trial is the school of trust. The sweetest songs are songs in the night. In everything give thanks. There was a Lutheran pastor; fire devastated his parish, bereavement emptied his home; then came paralysis, then blindness. On his bed, after all these afflictions, he called a friend and dictated the hymn:

"'My Jesus, as Thou wilt!
Oh, may Thy will be mine!'"

The original process of making rubber tires consisted in dipping the India rubber in melted sulphur and then heating it to nearly 300 degrees Fahrenheit.

DR. CRIST DESCRIBES TRUE HEROISM IN SUNDAY SERMON

Patriotic Talk Is Given By Pastor, Basing Remarks On Daniel, Third Chapter

The congregation at the First Methodist church listened to an earnest, patriotic sermon Sunday morning by the pastor, Rev. C. M. Crist. His topic was "The Three C's of Patriotism, Conscience, Conviction, Courage." The text was taken from the third chapter of Daniel, 19, 24 and 25th verses, "Then was Nebuchadnezzar full of fury, and the form of his visage was changed against Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego: therefore he spake, and commanded that they should heat the furnace one seven times more than it was wont to be heated. . . . Then Nebuchadnezzar the king was astonished, and rose up in haste, and spake, and said unto his councellors: Did not we cast three men bound into the midst of the fire? They answered and said unto the king, True, O king. He answered and said, Lo, I see four men loose, walking in the midst of the fire, and they have no hurt; and the form of the fourth is like the Son of Man."

Aglow with Living Examples

Dr. Crist said in part:

"The old testament is all aglow with living examples who are a wonderful incentive to us. The history of men is always the same in every age. The same strife between right and wrong. Two principles always at stake. One represented by God and one by Satan.

"The world is divided into two hostile camps. Nebuchadnezzar was a backslider, although he had never known God. But at the display of God's power and wisdom in Daniel he had intellectually believed in him. But we are taught by Christ that even devils believe. He was a convert to Daniel. On one occasion Dr. Chapman met a drunken man in San Francisco. He insisted on shaking hands with Dr. Chapman. Said he, 'Don't you recognize me, you converted me in one of your meetings.' 'Perhaps,' said Dr. Chapman, 'but if the Lord had converted you instead of me you would not be in your present condition.' So if Nebuchadnezzar had been really converted he would not have returned to setting up idols to worship.

Makes Image of Gold

"But the context tells us that he made an image of gold and set it up in the plain of Dura in the province of Babylon and a great occasion was made at its dedication. All the pomp and splendor, all the officials of Babylon and surrounding provinces were there and stood before the image. Then a herald cried aloud commanding all to fall down and worship it under penalty of being cast into a fiery furnace if they disobeyed. Here was sensation enough for any twentieth century crowd; Calculated to interest that company that gathered in Jersey City on Saturday to witness an affair that was a disgrace to any civilized community. At the announcement by the herald every head was bowed; every one fell down to worship the golden image.

"No! Three heads are not bowed. Three forms are not prostrate. They are the three Hebrews, Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego. The kind flies into a rage. The men remain firm. They are cast into the fiery furnace, but God delivers them and they stand forth to succeeding ages as examples of true patriotism with the three essentials, conscience, conviction, courage. God was the center of their affections.

Says Leaders Are Needed

"Here in the United States in the year 1921, on the eve of the nation's birthday we stand in the need of the same qualities. We need men of conscience, conviction and courage to lead the procession of righteousness. So many calls for leadership. So few willing to head unpopular causes; to be willing to be years ahead of their time.

"Thank God we have had men and women of that type in the fight for freedom and prohibition. The boys in Flanders fought a good fight against Kaiserism. At the same time we fought a good fight against the liquor traffic in our land and outlawed it. And now we must rally to the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment, as part of our National Constitution. It is a continual fight. We need Shadrachs, Meshachs and Abednegos today.

"No life so small or inconspicuous but God knows us and will help. Let us all be prepared to do the right thing at the right time. This is true heroism."

W. J. Clendenin Back From His Trip East

W. J. Clendenin, formerly of this city, and who is now located at 1228 West Fifth street, Los Angeles, has just returned from a seven months' trip to Baltimore. He was very much astounded at the remarkable growth of Glendale and the number of new business houses which have been built during that time.

Mr. Clendenin states that business in the east is rather flat, especially in the real estate line. While in Baltimore Mr. Clendenin's brother died very suddenly, and instead of remaining two or three weeks as originally planned he had to stay seven months and has now closed up all business interests there.

EDDIE WINFIELD IS SECOND IN RACE AT HANFORD

Makes Remarkable Time In Stripped Ford; Twelve Drivers In Contest

Word has been received from Eddie Winfield, the local automobile racing driver, to the effect that he won second place yesterday in the annual Independence Day fifty-mile free-for-all race at Hanford. First place went to a Los Angeles driver at the wheel of a Stutz. The two local men, Winfield and Durand, the latter acting as mechanician, made their remarkable record in a stripped Ford car, assembled especially by them.

The race was conducted under the auspices of the contest board of the American Automobile association and was attended by an estimated crowd of 6000. The time of the winner was 46 minutes, 2 seconds, for an average speed of about sixty-five miles per hour. Twelve drivers were entered in the race, which was the main event of the day.

A full account of the affair will be given in the Glendale Evening News as soon as the local "speed demons" return to Glendale.

Besides housing the Chamber of Commerce, space has been provided for a public auditorium, a rest room for women, committee and reading rooms. The cost of the building will be approximately $30,000.

The officers of the company that is financing this enterprise are E. U. Emery, president,; C. C. Cooper, treasurer; J. M. Rhoades, secretary; Owen Emery, attorney; and directors, J. J. Huntley, R. L. Kent, C. D. Lusby and W. G. Lauderdale.

Old Time Picnic Is Enjoyed Upon Fourth

J. C. Sherer and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Hester Parker of Somerset farm, 717 Verdugo road, entertained a number of friends and relatives yesterday afternoon at a regular old-time Fourth of July picnic. The gay affair took place under the spacious pepper trees which surround their beautiful country home.

The afternoon was spent in various games, musical numbers, a fireworks exhibit and a general good time. Just before sunset the guests were all assembled around a long picnic table, where they were served with a most delicious and elaborate five-course dinner.

Following the meal the merry-makers were grouped about in an impromptu open air theatre, where they enjoyed a splendid exhibition of fancy dancing by Miss Evelyn Thomas of Eagle Rock.

Those who took part in the happy affair were Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Thomas, Misses Evelyn and Vivian Thomas, Mrs. Norma G. Meier of Eagle Rock; Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Young of Hansen Heights; Mrs. Helen Frasier and Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Frasier and two children of Glendale.

cheering we can today) partake of its abounding fruit.'

"We accept the common belief that the Almighty planted the vine of this republic, and that He had a wise purpose in view in doing so, for God never works to no purpose. For the very first time in all history true democracy was planted in congenial soil, and through the century it has been watered and cultivated until today we see a vast nation of 100,000,000 million people, the richest in resources, and development the world has ever seen exemplifying to all the world the principles of liberty sown by that little band of Pilgrim Fathers.

"Since God had a wonderful purpose in view in the creation of man, He can have no less purpose in view for his comfort and welfare when God sanctioned the establishment of human governments. And now just what His purpose was, it is our privilege this afternoon to inquire into, that we may be more appreciative of the divine element in our national history, preservation and development. To us it appears that in the mind of the Almighty in planting the vine of this republic here, just where it is most favorably located, far enough distant from touch with the oldest kingdoms of the Old World, unmolested, untramelled, free, to work out our own destiny, under an entirely new form of government, and where we can dictate peace terms to the world.

"Here we most surely believe God can best work out, clearly and nobly, His great divine purpose that has been seen in all governments that are yet curbed and checked by ignorance, bigotry and government decrees. Here in this land of the free—in the complete separation of church and state, which has never been attempted before the founding of this government, is being worked out before the eyes of the whole world those principles laid down by the Son of God Himself when He said, 'Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and unto God the things that are God's.'

"Independent of the eagle eye of national government, age-long jealousies, blue-blooded royalty and police control, or military or navy domination, it seems have been the great purpose of Almighty God to establish such a government here where it was possible.

"To demonstrate to mankind the power of a true Christian purpose, righteousness must rule in the relations of man to man, of state to state and nation to nation.

"To this end has this country been founded and nurtured and entrusted with wealth and power undreamed of by the great empires of more ancient days.

"For we are God's chosen instrument to teach the world righteousness of intercourse and the true principles of responsible democracy upon which alone the peace of the whole world can be founded.

"How strange and sad, but unavoidable, that we must first fight, that peace can come only through war. Witness '76, 1812, '46, '61, '98 and '17.

"The power of evil, grovelling and vain ambition to rule the world, the law of might, must first be broken, before the kingdom of righteousness can be set up.

"That this is a Christian nation goes without saying, no matter to the contrary what may seem on the surface—a nation whose very foundation and trend of life and religious motive have been seen everywhere by the serious and considerate mind, is certainly the strongest evidence of the contention.

"It was the Cross of Calvary and what it means to a benighted people that stirred the very heart of Columbus to secure the attention of the Court of Spain and venture to the land of the setting sun, in his frail ships, feeling in his very heart he was guided by the Hand of Providence.

"It was the argument of Columbus there was thousands of heathen who knew not the true God, nor yet the manner of worshipping Him, to whom could be brought that blessed knowledge, thus was his pure moral motive.

"The early English discoverers and pioneers of whom Sir Humphrey Gilbert is a fair sample, who exclaimed as his ship went down and himself lost his life while returning from these shores, 'We are as near Heaven by sea as by land'; Lord Baltimore founding Maryland and at once establishing Christianity; James Oglethrope founding Georgia, and William Penn, whose name will forever grace and honor the name of Pennsylvania; and that of Father Juniper Serra here in this Golden State—these men and thousands of others whose names are inseparably connected with the early history of our country, we find there was in their motives a most powerful spirit of Christianity, strong belief in the Christian religion, the Holy Bible and practical piety.

"It was that same high Christian spirit and ideal forever killed the rum traffic and wrote it down in our national constitution with an indelible hand, as our perpetual protest against that abominable trade, demonstrating as a nation we believe in practive as well as theory; and it is our high-born purpose to be a sober nation, hence opposition to the Eighteenth amendment or refusal to enforce it, is an act of disloyalty and treason, rebellion against our country's laws, the entire proceeding breathing out the spirit of anarchy of the worst type.

"Our Pilgrim fathers, in quest of a home in this new land where they could worship God according to the dictates of their consciences, before they landed on Plymouth Rock, in the very cabin of the Mayflower, drew up a compact beginning with those immortal words, 'In the name of God, Amen.' And further, in that compact they said 'In the presence of God and one another covenanting and combining ourselves together into a civil body, politic.'

"This goes to show the leading thought and purpose that welled up in the very hearts of those Pilgrims. Any less high ideal and purposes on our part today makes us the unworthy children of those noble sires. And yet today we have many elements of our civic society which would repudiate every sign of those immortal Pilgrims who so stamped the impress of their character for good, for God and civilization it holds today as a blessing on their memory.

"The Christian church was the very first building erected in every community, where they could worship God in comfort and peace. Such sturdy missionaries as Elliot, Mathews, Sargent, Edwards, Brainard and Juniper Serra and many others, all were at work upon the uncivilized and un-Christian Indian to bring him the very light of God, both on the eastern shore and here on the western shore. From Massachusetts down to Georgia, and along the Pacific coast, among all the inhabitants, there was found the deep stream of religious faith, hope and courage. And from the very earliest periods of history on down to today we have God-fearing statesmen whose greatest ambition has been to establish on these shores truly a Christian commonwealth.

"Local demagogues and radical journals and the petty selfishness of certain localities may fight for the exclusion of the Chinese and Japanese, but let us remember, he is a man, a brother man, entitled to fair and just brotherly treatment at our hands.

"America, the 'Home of the brave and the land of the free,' where each man is a sovereign and all our millions are rulers, enjoying equal rights and privileges, highly favored of God, it is not for her to quelch the heaven-born hope of any race or class of men, who desire to become worthy citizens, who desire to make this land their home, or carry on peaceable the arts or trades, but it is our sacred duty to kindle that desire and hope, as Americans it is ours to lift up, not crush, the spirit of freedom; it is ours to heal, no wound; it is ours to turn a kindly face, a face of justice, a face of the very broadest humanity, toward men as men subjects of any foreign power, but not to give him a frowning face. Here men are not subjects—they are equals.

* * * *

"And the Fourth we have just reached is the best Fourth in this high regard we have ever had thus far since the establishment of this government. And it is so 'because the very God of Nations has guided this people back toward their original destiny from whence they had strayed that we might take our stand for all time beside the true standard of the truest and best citizenship.'

"And such a high ideal has come in the persons of Roosevelt, Folk, Jerome, Bryan, Hughes and Knox. These men and many others, of integrity and honor, have lifted that standard of manhood-citizenship and are making the people appreciate the heritage of freedom our forefathers bequeathed to us in a purer, cleaner democracy.

* * * *

"A new era at last came when the time was ripe in the providence of God for our country 'to be the leader in humanity's march from the low-levels of national friction, strife and conflict, from the dark valleys of race prejudice and hatred and animosity, from the social swamps of greed and lust and false ambition, and selfish, blind, bigoted leadership among the masses; yet, to lead humanity up to the very sunlighted summits of concord, fraternity and justice, equality and 'a square deal all around.'

"If this afternoon I have been echoing your own sentiments as to the God-destined high mission of this republic, then I am sure we will not fail to observe the Christian character of our government, and we will be led to feel the exalted responsibilities of our common citizenship and our celebration tomorrow will have a new meaning. This should increase the ardor of our patriotism in public and private life, by 'living for the right, inspired by courage, self-sacrifice, patience, hard work and constant loyalty to righteouness,' for civic righteousness is essential to national success most emphatically.

"Our motto should be for 'God and our country above all the earth,' if she is in the right, let keep her in it—if in the wrong let us make her right. With unwavering confidence in God, with His great name on our coins, with His smile upon our civic institutions, and with His spirit dominating our political leaders and national rulers, there is practically no limit to the grandeur and glory of our country, so long as we remain loyal to the principle of righteousness, for 'God hath not so dealt with any nation' as our own."

LAST SURVIVOR OF NOTED IMMIGRANT COMPANY HERE

Trail Marked by Bones

Many other similar happenings were encountered on the journey, Mr. Stubblefield aptly describing the barren trail as "scattered all along the way with bones, both of people and of animals."

Upon arriving in the northwest the company was disbanded, different groups scattering in all directions to make their future homes. "Uncle" Moses decided to make his stake in the northwestern section of Oregon, which had just been admitted to the Union as a state. Although he wasn't old enough at that time to take out a homestead "Stub," as he was familiarly called by his friends, obtained employment on neighboring farms until 1867, when he was granted a 160-acre plot of land located five miles south of the present site of the city of Pendleton, Oregon, in Umatilla county.

In the next year he was married to a young lady from Portland. They were the parents of two sons and a daughter, the latter dying at the age of 2 years.

He Is Last Survivor

Twenty-five years ago Mr. Stubblefield came to southern California to make his home, although he has kept in touch with the northwest during that time. Last year he received news that the last survivor, except himself, of the original King's company had succumbed; and he is now the sole living representative of that historic group of early settlers. He is now 76 years old.

Mr. Stubblefield is known throughout Oregon and Washington as one of the most prominent philanthropists of the northwest. Having been an orphan himself since his ninth year he has always taken particular interest in parentless children.

Prior to leaving his home in Oregon in 1895 he, in memory of his sister, who had just died, founded the Stubblefield Home, which is the largest orphanage in Walla Walla, Washington. The home is now taking care of over fifty orphans.

this great republic, to that of many of the kingdoms of this old world. They depended on the overthrow of some other nation, and the establishment of the kingdom by the strength of arms; not so with this country, it was the putting into effect a great truth, the equality of mankind. The language of Mr. J. P. Thompson, at the Centennial dinner given in London, July 4, 1876, is fitting today. I thank God that this birthday of the United States as a nation does not commemorate a victory of arms. War preceded it, gave occasion to it, followed it; but the figure of independence shaped on the fourth of July, 1776, wears no helmet, brandishes no sword, and carries no stain of slaughter and blood. I recognize all that war has done for the emancipation of the race, the progress of society, the assertion and maintenance of liberty itself; I honor the heroes who braved the fury of battle for country and right; I appreciate the virtues to which war at times has trained nations as well as leaders of armies; yet I confess myself utterly wearied and sated with these monuments of victory in every capital of Europe, made of captured cannon, and sculptured over with scenes of carnage. I am sick of that type of history that teaches our youth that the Alexanders, and Caesars, the Fredericks and Napoleons, are the great men who have made the world; and it is with a sense of relief and refreshment that I turn to a nation whose birthday commemorates a great moral idea, a principle of ethics applied to political society—that government represents the whole people for the equal good of all. No tide of battle marks this day; but itself marks the high-water line of heaving, surging humanity.

Principles Just as True

"We are far removed, in time, from those stirring days, but the principles expressed in that, almost sacred, document are just as true now as they were on that ne'er-to-be-forgotten day, when the colonies stepped forth to 'assume among the powers of earth the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and nature's God entitled them.'

"The preamble to the Declaration of Independence states the vital truth when it says we hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Truly this was a new order of things, and the sound of the old Liberty Bell, from the steeple of the state house of Pennsylvania, which rang out the glad news of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence, has been heard around the world. And the truths it sounded forth have had their effect on mankind. It was a happy coincidence indeed, that there was inscribed upon that bell, 'Proclaim liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabiants thereof.' Many of earth's inhabitants have heard that sound and have found here a home free from political and religious tyranny.

"That old bell now is silent,
And hushed is its iron tongue,
But the spirit it awakened
Still lives—forever young
And while we greet the sunlight,
On the Fourth of each July,
We'll ne'er forget the bellman,
Who, twixt the earth and sky
Rang out our Independence
Which please God—shall never die.

"The great principle established at that time was the equality of men under the law, possessing the inalienable rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, as one common heritage. It is in honor of these rights and privileges under the constitution, that we meet here today. Rights secured to us by the valor of those men that went forth with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, and who mutually pledged each other their lives, fortunes, and sacred honor.

Foundations Broad and Deep

"When our forefathers reared the magnificent structure of a free republic in this western land, they laid its foundations broad and deep in the eternal principles of right. Its materials were quarried from the mountain of Truth. It had no model in Grecian or Roman history. The builders recognized the rights of human nature as universal. Liberty—the great first right of man—they claimed for all men, and claimed it from God himself. Upon this foundation they erected the temple, and dedicated it to Liberty, Humanity, Justice and Equality.

"Upon the people of America is conferred the noblest birthright of the world, the birthright of these principles declared and defended by our forefathers, amid confused noise of warriors and garments rolled in blood, the principle that all men are created equal, it is the broad and only true foundation of greatness.

"The guns of '76 exploded the long venerated theory, that royalty must flow through the veins of a crowned lineage. In this land it is not possible to inherit one drop of royal blood in our veins—all have the same privilege before them, whether born in the low thatched cottage or in a gilded palace.

"Not only was there established at that time civil liberty, but in the language of another, religious freedom was the grand prelude to the swelling anthem of civil liberty. Truly the world saw a new order of things. Previous to this it had witnessed a condition brought about by a union of church and state, or as sometimes expressed a state religion, where a question of a man's relation to his God was settled many times by civil authority. How different under the Heaven-born principle that 'all men are created equal' and that no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office of public trust in the United States. And again, congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof.

Given Right to Choose

"The constitution, therefore, recognizes in every person the right to choose his own religion, and to enjoy it freely, without molestation. It is not the legitimate province of the legislature to determine what religion is true or false, our government is a civil and not a religious institution. Its proper object is to protect all persons in the enjoyment of their religious, as well as civil rights, and not to determine for any whether they shall follow this or that form of religion, or not follow any at all.

"What other nations called religious tolerance, we call religious rights. They are not exercised in virtue of governmental indulgence, but as rights of which the government cannot deprive any portion of its citizens, however small. Despotic power may invade these rights, but justice still maintains them.

"The catastrophe of other nations furnished the framers of the constitution a beacon of awful warning, and they evinced the greatest possible care in guarding against the same evil. The principles of our government do not recognize in the majority any authority over the minority, except in matters which regard the conduct of man to his fellow man.

"Those stormy days of the revolution produced men of keen foresight, and men who stood unflinchingly for liberty, both civil and religious. Referring to the first amendment Mr. Madison said, 'He apprehended the meaning of the words to be, that congress should not establish a religion, and enforce the legal observation of it by law, nor to compel men to worship God in any manner contrary to their conscience. That he believed the people feared one sect might obtain a pre-eminence, or two combine together, and establish a religion to which they would compel others to conform. Religion is not in the purview of human government. Religion is essentially distinct from civil government, and exempt from its cognizance. A connection between them is injurious to both. Washington, the father of our country, said, that every man who conducted himself as a good citizen was accountable alone to God for his religious belief. Jefferson, to whom is credited the authorship of the Declaration of Independence, said, 'Almighty God hath created the mind free, all attempts to influence it by temporal punishments or burdens, or by civil incapacitations, tend only to beget habits of hypocracy.'

"They saw clearly that the civil government had no right to interfere with a man's religious belief, unless the government was able, and ready to be responsible for the individual at the judgment bar of his Creator.

Not Founded on Religion

"The great men who founded our republic did not found it on the Christian religion. It was not founded upon any religion. It proclaimed liberty throughout all the land, guaranteeing to every man his right to choose what religion, if any, he might adopt as his own.

"And so, fellow citizens, it is these heaven-born principles, civil and religious liberty, so clearly recognized, so openly acknowledged, that have made this nation the attraction that it has been to the people of other lands, and have made it, in such an incredibly short time, the foremost and greatest nation in the world. And may the day never dawn when these principles shall be forgotten, and when this beloved country shall cease to be the land of the free and the home of the grave."

Harry R. Schenck Is Successful Fisherman

Harry R. Schenck of 1143 East Elk avenue, who left last Thursday for three days of deep-sea fishing, returned Saturday night in the best of spirits with a twenty-five pound albicore. With Bill Nye he boarded the fishing boat "Bonita" at Balboa Beach and cruised about Santa Catalina Island and up into the Santa Barbara channel. The "Bonita" is the boat owned for several years by William Farnum and it seems to know just where the big fish are.

Besides the albicore they caught some very fair bass and lived through more than one adventure before their return. Mr. Schenck, who is production manager of Universal City, left an offer of $50 at Avalon and Santa Barbara for an eight-foot shark which he needs in a picture that is under way.

Novel Circus Romance At Glendale Theatre

A circus story with all the romance of the "big top," thrilling encounters with wild animals and the magnetic screen personality of Gladys Walton will be the principal attraction at the Glendale Theatre tonight. It is called "The Man Tamer," and is a Universal special attraction in which the petite star of "Pink Tights," "Rich Girl, Poor Girl" and "All Dolled Up," does her most appealing work.

John Barton Oxford wrote the story and created a sensation with it in the "Red Book Magazine." It was adapted to the screen by A. P. Younger and filmed under the direction of Harry B. Harris.

As the story gets into action the star is shown as a circus girl, handling wild animals in an animal act with her father, a veteran of the arena. The father dies and the girl is forced to go it alone, battling for her living and her honor against tremendous and utterly discouraging odds. The heart wallop comes into the theme when she takes a wild young millionaire and tames him just as easily as she tames her wildest lion.

In addition to the feature, the third episode of "The Diamond Queen," with fascinating Eileen Sedgwick, will be shown; also Billy West in the two-part comedy "Service Stripes."

HOLDS CHURCH HAS NO RIGHT TO GET INTO POLITICS

Dr. H. C. Funk, Pastor First Lutheran, Expresses His Opinion On Subject

Taking a decided stand upon the right of the church to engage in politics, Dr. H. C. Funk, pastor of the First Lutheran church of Glendale, in an interesting sermon, delivered Sunday morning, declared that the church as an institution had absolutely no right to meddle in civil and political affairs.

"The Genesis of our Civil and Religious Liberty," taken from the text, Deut. 7:14. Thou shalt be blessed above all people, was the title of Dr. Funk's address. The following is a resume:

"The words just read in your hearing are an exhortation from Moses to the children of Israel. But when we look back on the way in which God has led us truly we must say that we also have been blessed above all people. History is continually repeating itself, and like a stream may be understood by observing the trend of movement.

And Then Rome Fell

"It is true to say that great personalities frequently dominate these movements, but these persons are themselves the product of that particular age. At one time men thought of Rome as the mistress of the world, and the idea of a universal church was also prevalent at that time. But Rome fell, and men no longer dream of any one nation ever ruling the whole earth.

"We are now in the closing period of nationalism, in which one nation stands by itself and looks upon all other nations with suspicion. Because of this our patriotism has taken on a sectional feeling; but we are approaching an epoch of internationalism, which will not regard the individuals of other nations as our enemies, but as our neighbors.

No Books to Read

"Before the reformation the individual existed wholly for the state. Men were not allowed to think—much less to act—for themselves. The ordinary man had never had a book to read; moreover he would not have been able to read the book if one had been placed in his hands.

Things Have Changed

"But, thank God, things have changed. And how was it all brought about? We hold that the liberties that we enjoy are the result of two doctrines won in the great struggle of truth against error in the reformation. First, Dr. Martin Luther contended for the rights of the individual citizen. We are on the eve of celebrating Independence Day. But before the reformation the individual had no rights which the state was bound to respect, for the individual counted for nothing. The state was absolute; it decided and determined every relationship in man's life.

"We teach that the church is a divine institution, and that secular or civil rulers cannot interfere in matters of faith. Heresy must be suppressed by spiritual weapons alone and not by civil power.

No Control Over State

"But the time has come when it is important for us to learn that the converse is equally true. The state is also a divine institution, and the church has no control over the state. The state in other words is sovereign in its own sphere and independent of the church.

"It follows therefore, that every effort on the part of religious bodies to organize for the purpose of controlling civil and political parties is opposed to the principle of separation of church and state. Why should a candidate for a civil or political office be required to obtain the indorsement of any religious body when he is guaranteed both civil and religious liberty?

"The church as an organized institution has no more right to meddle in civil and political affairs than civil authorities have to interfere in matters of faith. As an individual, however, it becomes not only the privilege but the bounden duty of every churchman to take an active interest in all public movements, throwing the weight of his personal influence in favor of the candidate or the party that may most nearly represent his ideals in both local and national politics.

"In conclusion, let us not forget the source of all these individual and national blessings. 'Blessed is that people whose God is the Lord.'"

'DEAR KATIE' LEARNS OF CELEBRATION AT BURBANK

Regular Blowout Occurs At Neighboring City; Big Show Proves Success

Glendale, July 5, 1921.

Dear Katie: On account of the many excitin' events which has been keepin' me busy of late, maybe I forgot to tell you as how I got a free pass the other day to the "biggest show on earth" which the same was no less than the three big days of fuss and feathers at Burbank on July 2, 3 and Fourth.

So early on Independance day I boarded the P. E. and sailed gaily away to the northwest to Burbank and "The Land of Poco Tiempo."

Well Katie, a record breakin' crowd was on hand and bands was playin' and everythin' and I didn't have no more trouble in gettin' in to the place than I would have in sellin' snow shoes in Glendale.

That bloomin' gate tender inspected my pass like he thought it was counterfeit. Then he took my picture and my finger prints and counted my toes and after I'd give him the history of my life in eight volumes, he let me pass throu the precious portals.

Well Katie, right away I decided as how it was worth it. Right there before my eyes was a perfect little Mexican village. Everywhere was dozens of little shacks and mud houses with signs painted on 'em like Confites, Botica, La Hermosita, etc., which the same to me, was about as clear as Venice in a fog.

Senoritas Smile And Stun

Dark eyed senoritas, strollin' pro and con, stunned me by their white teeth, olive skins and charmin' manners.

It all seemed to take me back in memories to this same land when it was trod by the dusky Spanish people in days gone by. The ten cent signs loomin' up everywhere was thick enough to of made Woolworth give up in dispair.

Everythin' from peanuts to dance halls was ten cents.

I bought a program for a dime and a hot dog for ten cents. Passing hither and thither was gracious and comely maidens from the Land of Make Believe, which the same is Hollywood, Katie.

Pretty girls from the movie world was everywhere and they was thicker than the ten cent signs. I walked along in awe and surprise. I was charmed to the n'th degree by the sense of romance and adventure.

I pushed my way throu the big crowd and I went into the camp of the 49'ers.

There in the dance hall, dozens of cowboys and cow girls, soldiers and sailors swung the fantastic toe to the soft strains of dreamy Spanish music, played by a sympathy orchestra and I bet if that orchestra had been in the Glendale Sheet Iron Works, they would of been throwed out for makin' too much noise.

And in the gamblin' room, as it was in the pioneer days, Katie, was the voices of men and the gay laughter of women mingled in a melodious discord with the rattle of chips and dice, the click of the fickle marble and the tinkle of (paper) money. Bar tenders, (which the same is as old fashioned as pug dogs, Katie), was as busy as guys sellin' palm leaf fans in Hades. I bought somethin' that looked like a bottle of red ink which cost ten cents per copy.

Beats Fight For Punches

Then I wandered from the halls of mirth and merriment and I went over to a place that was sellin' punch. Katie, there was more punches there than Dempsey ever dreamed of. There was orange punch, lemon punch, grape punch, punch boards and Punch and Judy. Choice ten cents. There was a place to check babies for ten cents. I saved money on that joint. I went into the big rodeo and sit down on a hard plank. Two bands from Glendale and Hollywood was playin' all the time.

The air was full of planes and the plains was full of cowboys. The airoplanes tried to break their necks by doin' stunts that would of raised hair on a bald head. The cowboys was tryin' to break all records and smash up the phonograph.

They was ridin' steers that wouldn't steer and bustin' bronchos that was busted before the war. There was stage coach races that run about as smooth as true love. There was—but what's the use, Katie? I'll send you my program and you can read all about it.

The whole show was a success for Burbank. For me it was a big blow out, four miles from home. Anyway it was for a worthy cause which was "To Build a Home for Those Who Have Served and Those Who Will Serve."

Well, Katie, Adios for this time, which the same means

Your Truly In Burbank.

POTATO GROWERS OF VALLEY ORGANIZE ASSOCIATION

Industry Gains In Volume And Over 80,000 Acres Devoted To Planting

Approximately thirty potato growers throughout San Fernando valley met last week at a Los Angeles hotel and organized an association for the protection of their interests.

Few people realize the importance of this industry in the valley, although it is probably the largest of any of them.

More than 8000 acres of land in the valley is now devoted to the growing of potatoes, and already this season a total of ninety carloads of the famous Irish vegetables have been shipped out.

Big Double Bill At Palace Grand Today

An American college girl in an American college story. That's what the Palace Grand theatre will offer to its patrons when Wanda Hawley opens there tonight in "The Snob," a tale of campus life and football by William J. Neidig.

A better choice of star for such a play could hardly have been made. Miss Hawley is a true epitome of the real American girl. Born in Scranton, Pennsylvania, and educated in Seattle (Wash.), High school, she has lived the life of the typical American young woman. From high school she went to the University of Washington and, after a period there, taught music in Bremerton (Wash.), schools.

And she hasn't forgotten her school days, either. Only recently she wrote the music and words for a song which has been adopted as the official song of Seattle High school. That is a matter of which she is produer even than her success in the screen world.

As an added attraction this popular playhouse is offering Charlie Chaplin in "The Adventurer."
